

Addressing intercultural sensitivity, gender equality and GBV prevention in the work with men with migration backgrounds

Wednesday 27th October

10am - 5pm CET

Online conference

Participation is free of charge, registration is required.

Please sign up via online form by the 14th of October.

FOMEN Final Conference Invitation

We are pleased to invite you to the final conference of the FOMEN project.

The FOMEN European project is based on innovative approaches focusing on the work with men in an intercultural perspective promoting gender equity and preventing violence among migrants, asylum seekers and refugees.

FOMEN started in 2019 and includes an interdisciplinary team across Austria, Croatia, Germany, Greece, Italy, and Spain. In the last two years, key professionals and male migrants and refugees have been involved in the project in pilot countries and across Europe. The action is strengthening social inclusion and raising awareness of institutions and practitioners around antiracist and violence preventive perspectives in addressing gender equality in Europe.

The Conference will offer a European-wide overview of the FOMEN experience, approach, and methodology, host the active participation of key actors and institutions, and will give room to discussion and exchange on how to follow up in the dialogue around gender equality, intercultural sensitivity and violence prevention within the migration context.

The event will be held in English and will take place online. Attendees will be able to comment and interact with speakers via live chat throughout the conference. A breakout room session will be organised where attendees will be brought on stage and actively participate in group discussion.

You can register for the FOMEN final conference via the online form. You will then receive an invitation to the online event to the email address you signed up with. As the attendance is free of charge but limited, please sign up before the 14th of October 2021.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to get in touch.